STOP OXFORD UNIVERSITY KILLING FELIX THE MONKEY

We the undersigned call on Oxford University to cease all experiments on Felix the monkey and release him to a primate sanctuary immediately. Felix is a primate who is currently incarcerated inside Oxford University and will be used in a series of painful experiments into brain function before being killed. The Home Office licence granted for the long-term experiments on Felix allows the infliction of severe/substantial suffering. The differences between the human and non-human primate brain are very significant making the results of such research on Felix and others like him at best contradictory and at worst misleading.
